A Clear Skin

is only a part of beauty, but it is a part. Every lady may have it; at least, what looks like it. Magnolia Balm both freshens and beautifies.

Done in Six Months.
That coil of hair on the back part of your head, dear lady. It is better than nothing and deceives nobody. In six months or less from to-day you may dispense with it if you are inclined to give Parker's Hair Balsam a fair trial. Cleanses the scalp, restores color, a delicious dressing. Not a hair, not oil, elegantly perfumed.

Again, here is a mother whose soul thoughtless and wayward and dissipated.
She is a christian and so would go to God for help. For what shall she pray? That the doggeries shall be burned, or that oaths shall to God and there to teach him to ask for refuge and strength and help.

The Russellville Herald-Enterprise, whose editor was married a fortnight ago, says: "Women are just too busy in new-lauded lawns, dresses, etc. When fresh from the close communication with toilet soap crystal water, she has the ripe peach fragrance of paradise. When a fellow passes to the windward of a lovely woman who is filling the air with sweetness and purity as she gracefully trips along, he delicately sniffs the air as if he had got a snatch of heavenly perfume. God bless the women!—if there were none on earth! dead-headed men would be scarce."

CURNICK & RANK, Principal

Rev. Stephen H. Tyng, D. D., a noted churchman, died at Irvington, N. Y., Thursday, in the 86th year of his age.

Of the 2332 presidential post offices, only 487 have passed by appointment into the hands of Democrats since Cleveland became President.

At Oakland, Marshall Co., a druggist sold a bottle of morphine for quinine to L. Kelly, who took an overdose, from the effects of which he died Tuesday.

The Caroline Islands have been formally seized by Germany and war between Spain and Germany is imminent. King Alfonso has called a cabinet meeting to consider the strained situation.

Minnesota, which abolished the death penalty for murder in the first degree and substituted life imprisonment seventeen years ago, has passed a law re-establishing the gallows. Maine and Michigan both tried to do without capital punishment also, but went back to the old plan of hanging murderers, some years ago.

Cheng Yin Huan, the new Chinese Minister to this country, will arrive in Washington next February. He is one of the richest and most enlightened men in the Celestial Empire. He will come attended by an immense suite and will live in the most magnificent oriental splendor. His coming is eagerly looked forward to, as he will be a useful man in the diplomatic service.

ATLANTA, Ga., September 5.—A most extraordinary wedding occurred in Pierce county, Ga. Wm. Hurrell, aged 40, a well-to-do farmer, espoused Sallie Wilson, aged only ten years and a half. The girl's father is ferryman for Maj. Spence, and gave consent to the wedding. The couple went to Macon on a wedding tour and return home to begin house-keeping to-day. All parties concerned are white and are well connected.

The 400 white miners employed at Rock Springs, Wyoming, undertook to clean out the 200 Chinamen working in the same mine and ran them out of their homes and burned every cabin last Wednesday. Fifteen Chinamen, who were under the influence of opium in their cabins, were burned alive and one other was killed during the firing which was intended to frighten them only. The Governor of the Territory was called to the scene of trouble and troops ordered out before order could be restored.

Thos. V. Cooper, of Philadelphia, Chairman of the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania, has been caught violating the Civil Service act by soliciting funds from Republicans, clerks in Washington. At the Pension Office alone 125 of his circulars calling for contributions were found. He will be prosecuted. The penalty is a "fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding three years." Ah, ha! Got so used to it he couldn't stop it.—Newport Journal.

In using their influence to keep Murphy, the champion offensive partisan of the Republican party of Kentucky, in office, Gov. Knott, Col. Stoddard Johnston and Senator Blackburn have made a blunder that they can hardly satisfactorily explain. We are very sorry that they were led to see this matter in a light so different from that in which decent Democrats everywhere see it. Murphy is a carpet-bagger without principle or decency and no Democrat can espouse his cause without a sacrifice of party loyalty and self-respect. An apology is certainly due the Democratic party from these distinguished leaders of the party.

Has the editor of the Fulton Fultonian sold his birthright for a mess of pottage? The following would indicate that the price of his influence is a couple of subordinate positions within the gift of the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

"Mr. Chas. Offutt, Speaker of the House in the last General Assembly of Kentucky was in the city last Monday, the guest of Mr. A. T. Mitchell. The representatives of the Purchase should not forget that it was Mr. Offutt that remembered us in the last session by appointing Tom Corbett and threw his influence towards the election of Willis Tingo. He is the only Speaker that has ever remembered the Purchase, and the newly-elected members should lend their vote and influence toward re-electing him."

From the tone of the press it will be a hazardous experiment for any Western Kentucky member of the next Legislature, with ambition for future preferment to go back on the candidate of Western Kentucky for the Speakership. The Owensboro Inquirer and Henderson Journal have both been led to speak out in meeting by a statement in this paper recently that a certain Democratic Western member would support a bluegrass candidate. The Journal uses this vigorous language:

"The member referred to, whoever he may be, is untrue to his section and certainly cannot represent the best interest of his constituency. A man who allows personal feelings to stand in the way of his duty as a Legislator has no business in the State Council."

THE CHOLERA.

MADRID, Sept. 3.—Cholera has broken out at Cadiz. The official reports show forty three cases and twenty three deaths in that city. Throughout Spain yesterday there were 2941 new cases of cholera and 1000 deaths from that disease.

TOLUO, Sept. 3.—Fourteen persons died from cholera in this city during the past night. Ten deaths from cholera were reported in the city to-day. Seventeen patients were admitted to the hospitals, eight were discharged cured and 136 remain under treatment. The physicians here declare that the cases here are more amenable to treatment.

GUINZALTA, Sept. 3.—Four deaths from cholera were reported here to-day.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Three deaths from cholera are reported from Malmort, France; six from Montaguac, and several from other places in the department of Herault. One death from cholera is reported from Orendorf, Transylvania. Cholera has appeared at Algiers.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Nearly all the deaths registered at Toulon are from Cholera. It is feared the period of incubation is not yet passed. Four deaths from cholera were reported at Salon to-day. An exciting incident occurred at St. Chamas. A decree had been issued forbidding the holding of funeral services in church over the bodies of cholera victims. In spite of this decree the friends and relatives of a girl who had died of cholera forcibly carried the remains into a church previous to interment.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 3.—The situation here is not more hopeful. Twelve deaths are reported in this city to-day. There were no deaths at Pharo hospital and no new cases admitted. Nine patients were discharged and fifty-five remain under treatment.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 4.—Eleven deaths from cholera were reported in this city. At Pharo hospital one patient died, five were admitted, one was discharged cured, while fifty-eight remain.

MADRID, Sept. 4.—There were 2,500 new cases of cholera, and 783 deaths from the same disease reported yesterday throughout Spain.

TOLUO, Sept. 4.—Seven persons died from cholera in this city last night. The cholera epidemic shows no signs of abating. Twelve deaths were reported to-day. At the hospitals twelve patients were admitted, seventeen discharged, while 117 persons were under treatment.

ROME, Sept. 5.—There were five cases of cholera reported at Novara yesterday. Two deaths were reported in the commune of Vergano and scattered cases in Liguria. The patients are mostly French refugees. The disease shows no tendency to spread.

TOLUO, Sept. 5.—Twelve deaths from cholera occurred in Toulon last night. The situation continues serious. The course of the epidemic appears to defy the calculation of the most experienced expert.

MADRID, Sept. 5.—There were 1,238 new cases of cholera and 797 deaths from the disease reported yesterday throughout Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 6.—Returns from all infested districts of Spain show that on Saturday there were reported 2,147 new cases of cholera and 779 deaths.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 6.—Ten deaths from cholera have been reported in this city to-day.

TOLUO, Sept. 6.—Nine persons died of cholera here to-day. At the hospitals eight patients were admitted; 123 remain under treatment. The situation here is improving. In the department of Herault five deaths are reported.

THE STATE PRESS.

The first paper in Casey county has appeared at Yosemite. It is called the News.

The Columbus Times has been suspended and its outfit merged into the Wickliffe Journal office.

F. R. Feland, the new editor of the Lawrenceburg News, keeps up the reputation of that paper for pointed editorial expressions.

The Flemingsburg Gazette, edited heretofore by C. D. McCartney, Mayor of the town, has been purchased by Henry McKell, who will edit it. Leonard Gibson, the editor of the Smithland Bee, was killed in 1814 by Dr. S. C. Snyder for saying that the latter was afflicted with excoethes scribendi. The Doctor thought the Latin meant something shameful. Kentucky editors use less Latin since.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Hon. Polk Laboon is here and getting in his work. He has recommended the following men for postmasters in his district and the appointments have been ordered to be made: J. P. Perkins, Lewisport, Hancock county; W. D. Hollman, Dawson, Hopkins county; John C. Hardwick, Corydon, Henderson county; J. P. Nelson, Spottsville, Henderson county; W. B. Bally, White Plains, Hopkins county; W. H. Hardin, Bacon Grove, McLean county; Thomas Pike, Waverly, Union county; John Bailey, Boxville, Union county; Charles Eberley, Caseyville, Union county.

Jack Langdon, a consumptive patient in the Louisville hospital, lately of a Cincinnati saloon keeper, is visited every other day by "his darling Mattie," a very black negro woman weighing 200 pounds, who claimed to be his wife.

The second or people's celebration of the completion of the new bridge at Henderson, last Tuesday, was pronounced the grandest affair of the kind since the great Know-nothing barbecue in 1842.

KENTUCKY KNOWLEDGE.

The total population of Cloverport is 1,104.

The Bowling Green Fair was held last week and was a pronounced success.

Jas. E. Stone, of Cloverport, is a candidate for clerk of the next State Senate.

The Emmet Kildes, of Russellville, have mustered out of the Kentucky State Guards.

An 80 pound watermelon raised in Warren county, is on exhibition at the Louisville Exposition.

Floyd Williams, a murderer, was hanged at Campton, Wolfe county, last Friday. He died game.

The railroad depot and a large tobacco warehouse at Glencoe, were burned Wednesday. Loss $20,000, insurance small.

John Hunt, 21 years of age, committed suicide by hanging in his father's barn, near Owingsville, Tuesday. A love affair caused it.

Joshua Osborn, of Owen county, became overpowered by gas while digging a well, and died before assistance could be rendered him.

There are four white women in the Madison-county jail. The charges against them are theft, poisoning, burglary, and carrying concealed weapons.

Two suicides were reported from Franklin on the 1st. Presley Walton took poison by mistake and Wm. Bush took morphine with suicidal intent.

At Loretto, Marion county, Lindsey Buckler shot and killed Aloysius Snyder, without the slightest known provocation. He shot him in the back with a shotgun.

AN ENGLISHMAN ON INDIA.

Social Condition—Wheat Growing—Manufactures—Shipbuilding.

Admiral W. T. Buxton, of the English navy, was seen by a Tribune reporter at the Victoria Hotel recently. On being asked about India, where he has served for many years, he said:

"India! What shall I tell you about India? It is a prodigious country, with a population of about two hundred and forty million, of which immense number the Valley of the Ganges alone supports ninety million. We have about fifty thousand British troops there, rather less than is required to maintain order in Paris. Then there are about one hundred and eighty thousand native troops, a large part of whom, however, are used for police duty."

"What is the character of the inhabitants?"

"That is such a general question that it is difficult to answer. The population is divided into numerous tribes and religions. The people range from coal black in color to a shade about as dark as the average Spaniard. I think they are as faithful as can be expected of any conquered people, but they are used to being conquered. From time immemorial they have been ruled by a strong hand; in fact, that is the only way they can be ruled. Do I think that we will stay there? Yes, unless the Russians breed such dissensions and revolutions that we will have to go. I think it hard to say who or what will succeed. The Russians will not; that is certain. The most influential class in India are the Parsees, who originally came from Persia, and are the great merchant princes of the large cities."

"How is the climate?"

"Deteriorating to the last degree. An Englishman and his wife settling in India will have children, but these latter will either be childless or have at the most one puny child. The Hindus themselves have physically but little endurance, which is not to be wondered at when we consider that their diet consists of rice, vegetables and salt fish. It is a crime for them to eat meat. Their bullocks and cows they use entirely for draft purposes, though when they die of old age or disease the natives will skin them and sell the hides."

"Is the native population satisfied with British rule?"

"Yes, I think so, although the home Government gives us too much government. It passes too many laws—the compulsory school attendance law for instance. Why, when a little black boy goes to school he thinks he is going to the devil. We must go slow. If no more laws respecting India were to be enacted for fifty years the country would be better off."

"Do you think that the wheat competition of India will affect this country seriously?"

"I think not, unless some unforeseen circumstances arise. During your civil war great quantities of cotton were raised in India, but at the close of the war that necessarily passed away, and with it the production of cotton fell off to a very large extent. Railroad transportation in India is so extremely dear that it forms a great drawback to the exportation of wheat. There is no reason, however, why manufacturers should not flourish. We have or can produce the raw material in abundance on the spot, and from ten to twelve cents a day we have the best help in the world. The hands of the Hindus are twice as supple and dexterous as the hands of an American or of an Englishman. Besides that we have a home market. The product of some of the hand looms is so fine and expensive that Europeans can not afford to use it, and it is consumed exclusively by the native princes and country gentlemen. You overlook the fact that there is a large class of the latter living on vast estates, with whole villages tributary to them, men who have never seen an Englishman and who never want to, keeping up great stacks of splendid horses, living, in fact, as rich men of leisure do the world over. In my opinion, unless some extraordinary disturbance arises, India will become a serious competitor to England and to the United States in manufactures. India formerly had a great industry, her looms, however, now that died out with the advent of iron ships—that is, shipbuilding. Formerly some of the finest specimens of naval architecture the world has ever seen were turned out of India. For a long time our Government launched an eighty-gun frigate every three years from the yards at Bombay. These ships were built of teak, the best wood for the purpose in existence. It is so hard that I have seen a large bolt so firmly imbedded in a piece of a ship that had been in the water for forty years that it had to be blown out by gunpowder. If there ever should be a revival of wooden shipbuilding, Bombay, with its millions of inhabitants, will be a place of very great importance."

It is said that the new Dutch hotel in New York, which is expected to supersede the Knickerbocker, will be built to men who can trace their descent to the founders of the city and State. Three gentlemen well known and highly respected in Boston—Lawrence Barrett, James Freeman Clarke and Charles Devens—celebrated their birthday recently. The famous preacher is the oldest of the trio, having been born April 4, 1819. Judge Devens is next, having been born April 4, 1838, and so a just fifty-seven days younger than the first act and he already has his hat in hand when she, putting her hand in pocket, said: 'Here, dear, I thought you would want one; you needn't go out, and she handed him a dove.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

'You do not seem to have much population about here,' said a stranger to Till Johnson. 'There is not as many people here as there was last June,' replied Till. 'How is that?' 'Well, you see, during the watermelon season more than half of our population is doubled up.'—Texas Siftings.

'Ah, Charles, how don't you know?' 'I've been out don't you know?' 'Gone into business?' 'Yes, I am, I'm so busy from morning till night that my brain fairly reels.' 'Too bad, my boy, too bad. You look as if you were overworked. What are you doing?' 'Ah, I've just a club, don't you know?'—Boston Post.

A kiss is a paroxysmal contact between the labial appendages attached to the superior and inferior maxillaries respectively of a man or woman or two women. The younger the parties are the more paroxysmal will be the paroxysm, and in case it is observed by the fond father of the paroxysmal young lady, there is also likely to be paroxysm between the maternal and paternal maxillaries and the phalangeal extremities of the metatarsus and other bony appendages from the lower end of the old gentleman's right leg. The kiss itself is not the paroxysm. It is merely the vibrations of the super-conjugal atmosphere, resulting from the contact of a sweet-smelling from the exhalations of lips engaged in creating a Boston Transcript.

TRAVELING. The Benefits Result from Change of Surroundings. As a boy is pleased with a whistle or a cat, and in youth finds delight with a horse or a bicycle, so in manhood comes the change of taste and ambition. The pleasures of twenty are out of date at thirty, and at forty we are looking through the tunnel to the light at the other end, and not until very much older, I believe, do we long for the last days of boyhood.

The years that seemed so long in passing at twenty go by like fast coaches before forty, and startle as like a night express at fifty.

in general use in business or pleasure, it is broad and instructive as a means of learning history it is beyond all books, maps and teachers; for learning history it is a rare experience. 'He is a wise man who can find out many men, many cities.'

The influence of travel on reading, love of learning and general advantage over information gained in books, need not be argued to enforce its meaning. We can learn more from a single journey than from a year's study in a school. It is the true of the once wealthy planters at the South, who have lost in the vortex of commerce, and the tide of affairs, the means that had furnished many a feast of enjoyment, whose present chief solace is the fond recollection of what was the so long in reality and is now only stored in memory.

From these we may learn that, next to our nearest friends, it will ever be the gain and profit of strange lands visit. It is a journey of discovery and fond recollection.

And what, after all, is life but a little journey in a strange land, with a few companions, less friends, a dining train, a halt at the little stations, a rest and a recollection of what we have seen, known and enjoyed as we traveled, even though they may be an assessed life impressions and surroundings.

The chief gain of travel is that it is a journey of discovery and fond recollection. It is a journey of discovery and fond recollection. It is a journey of discovery and fond recollection.

COMMUNISM. Why Did Not Refuse to Whack Up With a Communist. DEAR SIR: Your courteous letter of the first instant, in which you cordially request to share my wealth and dwell together with me in fraternal sunshine, is duly received. While I dislike to appear cold and distant to one who seems so youthful and so clinging, and while I do not wish to be regarded as purse proud or niggard, I must decline your kind offer to whack up.

You had not heard, very likely, that I am not a Communist. I used to be, I admit, and the society no doubt neglected to strike my name off the roll of active members. For a number of years I was quite active as a Communist. I would have been more active, but I had conscientious scruples against being active in anything then.

While you may be perfectly sincere in your belief that the great capitalists like Mr. Gould and Mr. Vanderbilt should divide with you your wealth, I should find it difficult to make it perfectly clear to them. They will probably demur, and delay, and hem, and haw, and procrastinate, until finally they will get out of it in some way. Still I do not wish to throw cold water on your enterprise. If the other capitalists look favorably on your plan, I will cheerfully co-operate with them. You go on at some length to tell me how the most of the wealth is in the hands of a few men, and then you attack these men and refer to them in a way that makes me feel that you are not really the philanthropist of America to be aware, for the hot breath of a bloody-minded Nemesia is already in the air.

You say say to Nemesia, if you please, that I have a double-barrel shotgun standing at the head of my bed every night, and that I am in the habit of firing it off at the first sight of Nemesia. You say so often, that the slenderness of eternal justice are camped on the trail of the pampered millionaire, and you ask us to avenge it. If you see the other slenderness of your society within a week or two, I wish you would say to them that at a regular meeting of the millionaires of the country, after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, we voted unanimously to discourage any slenderness that we found camped on our trail after ten o'clock p. m. Slendernesses who want to ramble over our trails during office hours may do so with the utmost impunity, but after ten o'clock we want to use our trails for other purposes. No man wants to go to the great expense of maintaining a trail winter and summer, and then leave it out nights for other people to use it and return it when they get ready.

I do not condemn you, however. If you could convince every one of the utility of Communism, it would certainly be a great boon to you. Those who are now engaged in feeding themselves with flat beer out of a tomato can, such a change as you suggest would fall like a ray of sunshine in a rat hole, but I am not sure that I tried it while, but my efforts were futile. The effect of my great strength seemed to be that men's hearts grew more and more stony, and my pantaloons got thinner and thinner on the seat till it seemed to me that the world never was so cold. Then I made some experiments in manual labor. I began to work harder and sit down less. I found that the world was not so cold. It was only when I sat down a long time that I felt how cold and rough the world really was.

Perhaps it is so with you. Sedentary habits and staid gear are apt to make one morbid. Sitting on the stool of complacency, and looking at the world during cold weather is apt to give you an erroneous impression of life.

Of course, I am willing to put my money into a common fund if I can be convinced that it is best. I was an inside passenger on a Leadville coach some years ago, when a few of your friends suggested that we all put our money into a common fund, and I was almost the first one to see that they were right. They went away with the money, but they left the money to me. I found that the world was not so cold. It was only when I sat down a long time that I felt how cold and rough the world really was.

Damages in Both Ways. Sickness is the most expensive thing in the world. In two ways: It puts one to a direct cost, and prevents one from earning money by his labor. We say nothing of suffering, for the money cannot pay for that. We must needs to keep oneself well. The use of Parker's Tonic whenever there is the slightest sign of ill health.
